Country Guy, Badly Ridden by Heider, Loses to O'Connor in the Long Branch Steeplechase.

Many en upset marked the racing at Elkwood Park yesterday. It was the second and last day's sport of the steeplechase association, and with the exception of August Belmont's Raymond, which scored 'n the first race, the winners came from most unexpected places. The crowd, though not the equal of the one that welcomed the runners on Thursday, was a large one and the grandstand and lawns were well filled. Only one mishap marred the running. That was when Jockey Tuckey was unseated from Gold Plate, the favorite, in the running of the West End Steeplechase. He was unhurt and the riderless horse continued with his company and finished the course. What was meant for the feature race, the Long Branch Steeplechase, lost muc of its interest when both Kingpin and The Evader were scratched. With this pair out of the way, Harry Lee's Country Guy was considered best, and though Mr. Lee is a clever rider himself he engaged the pro fessional Ernest Heider. After the race he freely expressed the opinion that his horse lost only by reason of a bad ride

Helder had Country Guy in his lap and the other had been hard ridden to reach a contending position. Despite the fact that Country Guy was first over the last fence, and apparently with something in reserve, O'Connor under a well timed ride was up to nip him on the

He was lucky to break well, while Petits Chevaux and Boisterous, two of the expected contenders, were particularly unlucky. Boisterous, closing a big gap, was good third, while J. E. Davis's filly Himation took the place.

Duke of Duluth won the Archdale Steeplechase because his owner and jockey, James Park, outrode J. F. Flanagan, jr., was astride his good mare Casual. The only other starter was Richard Mortimer, jr.'s, Tillie D., also ridden by her

He was in the race to make pace for Gold Plate, but when the latter lost Jockey Tuckey a one of the fences Mr. Lee, by a masterful ride, kept Supplement going long enough to score over King's Plate. Web Carter which was third, could not find his racing legs until it was too late.

The mile and a half race that was the first number on the programme was only gallop for August Belmont's Raymond, ridden by E. C. Cowdin, $d. He went to the front in the first furlong, and thereafter he romped all the way.

At the end of the programme Mr. Bamberger tode his Knight of the Thistle gelding. Scotch Laddie, to his second victory of the meeting. George M. Pynchon's 65-foot sloop, the stalena, in covering a triangular course of 23% miles on Long Island Sound yesterday in 2 hours 58 minutes 23 seconds proved the winner of one of the Glen Cove cups offered by the New York Yacht Club. The boat hit the starboard gangway ladder, smashing the bottom landing step. "Bert" Ross took a header out of the boat, but swam to the Ethel May. The Vita was badly damaged and had to be towed ashore Her bow was smashed in, and had she not had a watertight bulkhead the craft would have sunk.

This was not the only accident that hapened to Mrs. Blackton's boats. In the afternoon race for hydroplanes her Vita, Jr., had considerable trouble with her engines and refused to plane. As she was hopelessly out of the race, Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, who was driving the craft withdrew. It was only another of the many accidents that has happened to Commo dore Blackton in Gravesend Bay races. Dr. Henry Z. Pratt also had hard luck with his craft. He is the owner of Tiny

Tad, one of the fastest little hydroplanes in the country. During the morning the craft had trouble with her steering gear and had to give up the race. In the afternoon's contest, after starting thirty seconds late, Tiny Tad picked up Edith II and Vita, Jr., and was leading at the end of the first round. At the end of the second round Tiny Tad stopped, but she started again and led at the end of the third round. Nearing the Fort Hamilton mark, however. Tiny Tad again stopped and had The course was not particularly good for motor boating. A stiff breeze blew from the southwest and kicked up a nasty jump in the channel, which prevented fast time being made by any of the craft. Among the many boats that lined the course, all dressed in true nautical style, were Rear Commodore Wilson's Sumida, Larchmont Yacht Club; Frank Daniels's nouseboat Whileaway, Larchmont Yacht Club; S. Townsend's power yacht Raco, Larchmont Yacht Club; Frederick D. Underwood's steam yacht Alice, Cemmodore Blackton's Paula, A. E. Smith's Etnel May, Rear Commodore Teale's Arval, C. M. Meyer's steam yacht Maspeth II, W. A. Barstow's racing sloop Soya, which lost her mast during the afternoon, and John The summary follows:

WOLGAST AFTER RIVERS Champion Anxious for Another Meeting with Mexican.

Los Angeles, July 6 .- Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers will meet again, probably on Labor Day, in the Vernon arens. Both boys, with their managers and Tom Mo-Carey, manager of the club, were of one mind on this subject. All agreed that another meeting was imperative, all agreed to meet again and all agreed that Labor Day was the most logical date. The question of finances alone separated them. The selection of a referee was not mentioned. "I will do anything to get Rivers in the ring again," said Jones, who handles the lightweight champion. "I will give Wolgast all of the purse, if necessary, to get him in the ring once more," said Levy, manager for Rivers. Wolgast broke silence to-day, in a published statement saying he was willing to again meet Joe Rivers and decide the championship, which was left open by the freakish ending of the fight on July 4. He suggested Labor Day for the return, and declared he was willing to fight anywhereprovided a fat purse was put up. Wolgast asserted that he was not helped to his feet by Jack Welch, the referee. falling from a third story window of his while Rivers lay on the floor being counted

An interesting programme of aquatic sports has been arranged for the annual carnival of the Allen Point Boat Club, at the foot of 55th street, East River, this afternoon.

Among some of the amusing events arranged are a greased pig, and wild such chasing and cance tilting.
